

The Child you have is the Child you created.

In working with many extremely stress families I have observed too many parents are looking for and hoping that some organization or individual can come into their life and fix their children who are behaving and acting inappropriately. What makes this observation so unbelievable is that these parent's do not realize that the child/ren they have are the children they have created.

For example, if you expose your children to vulgar language and profanity, do not be surprise or shock if your children go into the classroom and repeat such expressions. If love and kindness is not practice in your home, do not be surprise that your children do know what love and kindness sound or feel likes.

If you have not exposed your child to the joy of learning, do not be surprise if your child do not excelled academically. If your home is one of violence and lawlessness do not be surprised that your child responds with violence.

If your child grew up watching you live on public assistance and never trying to achieve your dreams or goals, do not be surprised that your child repeats this cycle.

If your child was raised in a home where you and other adults were into self-medicating do not be surprise if your child experiment with drugs or alcohol at a young age.

If you exposed your children to multi-partners, which lead to your children having different fathers do not be surprised that your children will repeat this pattern.

What all parents must begin to realize is there is no program or individual who is going to fix your child, if you do not change the culture, the values, and the belief's system which support that culture you and your children are doom.

With the New Year about to begin shortly the point I want to leave all our parents who are having difficulty with their children is this is your creation, what you are getting, is what you have model before your children. If you want a different out come you must start to model different behavioral. The choice is yours.
